

Reservoir 1776-1976

With picks and shovels, grimy faces and black hands, miners strained their backs for coal deep inside mountains in many parts of Utah.

Horse power was the major energy source at this Huntington Mine in the 1890s.

